

Examples of device packages for Digital Devices grant

The Digital Devices grant enables organisations to purchase smartphones, tablets and computers to create a loan library for learners who don't have a device of their own. It is important that devices have an internet connection as learners may not have this either (e.g. sim card with data or wi-fi dongle).

Below are some examples of devices and data combinations you can purchase with the Digital Devices grant.

Important notes

These are only a small selection of the combinations of devices and data available, and are not a recommendation or endorsement by Good Things Foundation Australia.

It is recommended that you conduct your own research to find the most suitable devices and data plans for your community. You may wish to add items such as protective cases to your selected packages. Grant applications will be assessed on demonstrating good value for money, so please consider this when undertaking your research.

Top tip: Look for sales and special offers to reduce the cost of your device and data packages. Contact your local stores and providers and ask for a not-for-profit discount.
